6. Lawful, Fair, and Transparent Processing

- 6.1 The Data Protection Act 2018 requires that personal data is processed lawfully, fairly, and transparently, without adversely affecting the rights of the data subject. Processing of personal data shall be lawful if at least one of the following conditions is met:
  - a) the data subject has given their consent to the processing of their personal data for one or more specific purposes;
  - b) the processing is necessary for the performance of a contract to which the data subject is a party or to take steps at the request of the data subject prior to entering into a contract;
  - c) the processing is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation to which the data controller is subject;
  - d) the processing is necessary to protect the vital interests of the data subject or of another natural person;
  - e) the processing is necessary for the performance of a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of official authority vested in the data controller;
  - f) the processing is necessary for the purposes of the legitimate interests pursued by the data controller or a third party, except where such interests are overridden by the fundamental rights and freedoms of the data subject, in particular where the data subject is a child.

- 6.2 [If the personal data is processed as 'sensitive personal data' then the following conditions must be met:
  - a) the data subject has given explicit consent to the processing of such data for one or more specific purposes (unless the law prohibits them from doing so);
  - b) the processing is necessary for the performance of obligations arising from employment law, social security, and social protection law, or for the purposes of an agreement providing for appropriate safeguards for the fundamental rights and freedoms of the data subject);
  - c) the processing is necessary to protect the vital interests of the data subject or of another natural person where the data subject is unable to give consent;
  - d) the data controller is a political party, trade union, or other non-profit body with a political, religious, or trade union aim, and the processing is necessary for the purposes of its legitimate activities, provided that the data is processed solely to the members or former members of the association, or other non-profit body who have regular contact with it in

- e) the processing of personal data which is manifestly made public by the data subject;
- f) the processing of personal data for the conduct of legal claims or in connection with the exercise or defence of legal rights, whenever such processing is necessary;
- g) the processing of personal data on the basis of legitimate interests or of the legitimate interests of a natural or legal person, provided that such processing does not override the interests or fundamental rights and freedoms of the data subject; or
- h) the processing of personal data for occupational purposes in connection with an employment contract, for the purposes of an employee's occupational safety and health, for the purposes of occupational care or treatment, for the purposes of occupational health or services of occupational health or professional associations, or for the purposes of Article 9(3) of the Directive;
- i) the processing of personal data for reasons of public health in the area of public health, for the purposes of preventing or combating threats to public health, for the purposes of identifying, assessing or managing health risks, for the purposes of health care, for the purposes of health care of law which is necessary or proportionate, and which respects the rights and freedoms of the data subject (in particular, professional secrecy); or
- j) the processing of personal data for scientific or historical research purposes, or for statistical purposes in the area of public health, provided that such processing is necessary, is based on law which respects the essence of the rights and freedoms of the data subject, and provides for specific measures to safeguard the fundamental rights and the interests of the data subject.

7. Consent

If consent is relied upon as a legal basis for the processing of personal data, the following conditions must be met:

- 7.1 Consent is a clear affirmative action which indicates the data subject's agreement to the processing of their personal data. Consent may take the form of a statement or a ticked box, but it is unlikely to amount to consent if the data subject does not have a free choice, is not aware of the risks and consequences, or is unable to exercise their rights.
- 7.2 Where consent is obtained in the context of a contract, the consent must be freely given, which includes other matters, the consent must be clearly separate from such other matters.
- 7.3 Data subjects are free to withdraw their consent at any time and it must be made easy for them to do so. If a data subject withdraws consent, their request must be honoured promptly.
- 7.4 If personal data is processed for one or more purposes, consent is only valid for the specific purpose or purposes. If the data is processed for a different purpose that is incompatible with the purpose for which that personal data was originally collected, the data subject must be informed and must give their consent again.

25. Transferring Personal Data to the UK

- 25.1 The Company may transfer (‘transfer’ includes making available remotely) personal data to countries outside of the UK. The Data Protection Legislation requires the Company to ensure that the level of protection given to the data is not compromised.
- 25.2 Personal data may be transferred to a country outside the UK if one of the following applies:
  - a) The UK has entered into an agreement with the country in question ensuring an adequate level of protection (referred to as ‘adequacy decisions’ or ‘adequacy decisions’). From 1 January 2021, transfers of personal data to countries in the European Economic Area (EEA) will continue to be permitted. The UK has also entered into an agreement with EEA countries which will also be in place to recognise pre-existing EU adequacy decisions.
  - b) Appropriate safeguards are in place, including binding corporate rules, approved for use in the UK (this includes those adopted by the Company prior to 1 January 2021), an approved certification mechanism, or an approved certification mechanism.
  - c) The transfer is made on the basis of informed and explicit consent of the data subject.
  - d) The transfer is necessary for the performance of a contract between the data subject and the Company, for the protection of public interest reasons; for the establishment or defence of legal claims; to protect the vital interests of the data subject where the data subject is physically or legally incapable of giving consent; or, in limited circumstances, for the Company’s legitimate interests.

26. Data Breach Notification

- 26.1 All personal data breaches must be reported immediately to the Company’s Data Protection Officer.
- 26.2 If an employee, agent or contractor of the Company or a third party working on behalf of the Company becomes aware that a personal data breach has occurred, they must report it to the Data Protection Officer. Any and all evidence relating to the breach must be preserved and retained.
- 26.3 If a personal data breach is likely to result in a risk to the rights and freedoms of individuals (e.g. financial loss, breach of confidentiality, disclosure of sensitive information, or other significant social or economic damage), the Data Protection Officer must ensure that the Information Commissioner is notified of the breach without delay, and in any event, within 72 hours of becoming aware of it.
- 26.4 In the event that a personal data breach is likely to result in a high risk (that is, a risk to the rights and freedoms of individuals) to the rights and freedoms of individuals (e.g. 26.3) to the rights and freedoms of individuals, the Company must ensure that all affected data subjects are informed of the breach and without undue delay.
- 26.5 Data breach notification must include the following information:
  - a) The categories of personal data concerned;
  - b) The approximate number of data subjects concerned;

- b) The category of records concerned; number of personal data records
- c) The name and contact details of the Company's data protection officer (or other contact person to whom information can be obtained);
- d) The likely consequences of the proposed measures; h;
- e) Details of the measures proposed to be taken, by the Company to mitigate the risks, including, where appropriate, adverse effects.
